

As most bookings are made well in advance, and as we often perform at more than one event per day, it is advisable to have your times firmly set before making your booking. However, if you are able to give 6 weeks notice, we should be able to change the time of your booking. Please note that if you change your times less than 6 weeks before your event, it may be difficult for us to accommodate you due to other engagements on the same day.